DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn as indicated in the previous advisory action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.
- 2. Claims 13-30 and 55-59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Bauer et al. (A Collaborative Wearable System with Remote Sensing).

As to claims 13, 24, Bauer discloses a wearable computer for user in a process control environment having a process control system including a plurality of process control devices (e.g. computers, network outlets) disposed within the process, the wearable computer comprising: a processing unit (page 13, section 4.1, paragraph 1); a memory; an imaging device (e.g. video camera, scanner sensors) that produces an image signal; an image processor that processes the image signal to identify one of the devices based on a device features (see page 14, sections 4.2); and a soft routine (see page 14, section 4.3) stored in the memory and adapted to be executed one the processing unit to provide process information generated by one or more of the plurality of process control devices during operation of the process (e.g. Bauer discloses an a sensor is a scanner for electronic equipment tags as an object identity to attached to the computer equipment objects, Bauer further discloses a sensor is a packet sniffer, a device that plugs into the network outlets and allows technicians to analyze network packets).

As to claims 14, 25, Bauer discloses a heads up display unit coupled to the image processor that display information pertaining to the identified device on the heads up display (e.g. the user can view the object information when the object is being scanned or plug-in).

As to claim 15, Bauer discloses the information is diagnostic information related to the identified device (e.g. analyze network packets).

As to claim 16, Bauer discloses the help information related to the identified device (e.g. the object location or types).

As to claims 17, 26, Bauer discloses a remote communication device that communicates with the process control system such as the expert in a remote location.

As to claim s18, 27, Bauer discloses using camera to grab an image frame.

As to claims 19, 20, 28, 29, Bauer discloses an optical character recognition device such as an optical scanner.

As to claims 21-23, 30, Bauer discloses voice recognition unit and a microphone (see page 15, section 5).

As to claims 55-59, Bauer discloses that the person in the field can communicate with the expert in the office by video image such as the map application which is a shared-window application. For example, the symbols in the map represent various types of network equipment. The network sockets are indicated by stars. Both users can select symbols to indicate which particular piece of equipment they are referring to. Objects can be selected by either scanning the iButton tag attached to a device in the real word, or by clicking on the symbol on the screen.

The selections of the local and remote user are indicated by colors; the object that was selected or scanned by the local user is indicated by the color gray, whereas the selection of the remote user is displayed in black. Additional information about the selected devices is displayed in the text fields at the bottom of the screen. In other words, the local user and the remote user can both modified the image and sent to each other to view the information he is selected.
